

Other than Mother: An evening exploring childlessness

Monday 6th June, 7-9pm, £6
at the Galley Café, 133 Hotwells Road, Bristol, BS8 4RU

More women than ever before are not having children in 'Western' countries. Fascinated by this phenomena, Kamalamani wrote the book Other than Mother: Choosing Childlessness with Life in Mind to support others mulling this private decision with global consequences.

This book explores the many themes that constellate around the decision to have children (or not), themes we'll have the chance to explore in the course of this evening: identity, gender conditioning, meaning-making, embodiment, spirituality, ecology and our care for other-than-human life, to name but a few.

Held the day after World Environment Day, this evening will be a space for discussion and exploration of these themes, after a short talk from Kamalamani. She longs for the day when we embrace different reproductive choices and the childfree aren't judged and stereotyped as being somehow socially deviant. Come and help create new dialogues and a more creative culture!

To find out more or to book, please email:
kamalamani@blueyonder.co.uk

Tickets cost £6 and are bookable in advance due to the limited number of places (18). Refreshments will be available.

Signed copies of 'Other than Mother' will be available for purchase.

Venue information—please see the Galley site to the right.

Kamalamani works as a Body psychotherapist, counsellor, facilitator, supervisor and author here in Bristol. Her practise of meditation and the Dharma influences her work and life. 'Meditating with Character', Kamalamani's first book, was published by Mantra Books in 2012. 'Other than Mother: Choosing Childlessness with Life in Mind' was published by Earth Books in April.

For more information, please visit:

Web: www.kamalamani.co.uk FB: www.facebook.com/otherthanmother Twitter: @kamalamani